KEMMLER'S LAST HOPE GONE The United States Supreme Court Denies the Application for a Writ of Error.

The Supreme Court of the United States to day denied the application for a writ of error in the case of William Kemmler, under senthe lower courts leading up to the bringing of the case to this court. The court says that it is urged in Kemmler's behalf that the fourteenth amendment is a prohibition on the state of the imposition of cruel and unusual punish ment, this being included in the term "due process of law." The origin of the phrase "CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT," the court said, was in the English act of settlement of 1688 and meant that barbarous methods of punishment should not be in flicted. It ods of punishment should not be inflicted. It meant that a man should not be sentenced to death by torture, but did not mean that the death penalty itself was cruel. The court of appeals, the opinion says, held that the punishment inflicted on Kemmler was unusual, but there was no evidence to show that it was cruel. The legislature of New York had the facts bearing upon this question, and the court must pre-sume that the legislature had devised a punish ment it thought

Rich-mond and West Point led the decline in the regular list, losing 34 per cent to 25%, but the losses in the others were generally insignificant. Dr. Patton of Princeton Fires a Big Gun Against Unwise Revision.

Saratoga, N.Y., May 23.-The important business before the Presbyterian assembly this morning was consideration of providing a committee on revision. Two resolutions were before the house, one by Rev. Dr. McCracken of New York and the other by Elder Henry Day. Dr. Patton of Princeton College held the floor, declining to yield to Elder Day and Dr. Herrick Johnson, who ased the privilege of reading resolutions. Dr. Patton, who has been regarded as leader of the anti-revision-ists, said: "This is the most serious moment in the life of this assembly. We represent differ-ences of epinion. It is too late to raise the question as to the wisdom of the last assembly in submitting the overtures upon which we are about to act, but it is my opinion that it was about to act, but it is my opinion that it was a very unwise act. I will oppose from the very bottom of my heart the submission of Dr. Mc-Cracken's resolution to the assembly. Out of the 213 presbyteries of this assembly only eight ask for an absolutely new creed. I do not see the necessity for any alteration in the confession of faith. But 134 presbyteries have expressed themselves in favor of it, and I bow to the opinion of the majority thus expressed. [Great applause.]

"Now, then, how shall we go at it? It seems to be the general opinion that the best way is to appoint a committee to consider the matter and report to the next assembly. I don't care how you appoint the committee, but Dr. Mc-Cracken's resolution reads as though he was Cracken's living in the middle ages and was assisting in the appointment of a Doge of Venice. We could do it in a much shorter way. We should appoint this committee because it is a right thing to do. The church has a right to revise her creed and I will defend that right [sensation], but what is the committee going to do? What are they for? I have What are they for? I hope we shall not give this committee a roving commission. I wish them to understand that no change shall be made that will in any way impair the integrity of the Calvinistic system. [Applause]. "Our confession of faith has been traduced,

DR. PATTON'S AMENDMENT.

Dr. Patton offered the following amendment to Dr. McCracken's resolution: That a committee of ministers and elders, in number not less than fifteen, be appointed to consider the suggestions made by the presbyteries and re-port to the next assembly; and whereas a minority of the presbyteries have desired that no change be made, therefore,
Resolved. That the committee shall not propose amendments that will impair in any way the Calvinist system and that they shall confine their labors to such changes in phraseology as shall remove popular misunderstanding. Elder Day secured the floor and offered a substitute for the resolutions of Dr. McCracken and Dr. l'atton. It differs from Dr. Patton's in that it does not instruct the committee as to with applause, Elder Day said Dr. Patton's speech was a great and pleasant surprise to everybody. It would surprise the entire country. "Brethren the thing is done; revision is accomplished. Dr. Van Dyke of Brooklyn took the platforma "Yesterday I trembled in the belief that the Presbyterian Church was on the verge of a great catastrophe, but my trembling has vastly decreased since Dr. Patton's speech. The situation reminds me of the story of the lion and lamb and for the life of me I can't tell which is the lamb. The great transcontinents train of revision starts from Saratoga today, The first stop will be at Princeton Junction.

[Laughter and applause.] Get aboard, everybody; the train won't stop long. It has started and there's not sand enough in New Jersey nor pig iron enough in Pennsylvania, pines in Michi gan, or mountains in the west to stop its progress to the golden gate. I will not consent to restrictions on the revision committee. I do not agree with Dr. Patton that it was unwise for the last assembly to send out the overture to the Presbyteries. [Cries of question.] Mr. Moderator, the wisdom of the last general assembly has been impeached. [Cries of "question, hisses and applianse.]

The moderator rapped for order and ruled that Mr. Van Dyke had the floor and must be heard. Dr. Van Dyke continued: "I want the shadow of infant damnation rooted out of the confession. Dr. Patton's confession would leave the question ambiguous. I don't want any ambiguity put in God's solemn declaration that none shall perish. Why restrict the com-mittee beyond the general declaration? We will err greatly if we do."

At 12:30 p.m. Dr. Crosby was recognized by the moderator and a recess was taken until 2:30. It is likely that one of the resolutions will be adopted this afternoon. At least that is the opinion of many of the commissioners.
